Brest Being Tried In Fed-

For Volant Robberies

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, May 27.—Three more witnesses today identified Harold Martin Brest, who "came back" from Alcatraz only to be re-convicted on a kidnap count, as one of two men who twice robbed a Volant Pa. bank and escaped with approximately $10,000.

The 28-year-old former Sharon resident, who was released from "the Rock" on a technicality, heard P. N. Cox, cashier of the First National Bank at Volant identify him as the bandit who took the money on both occasions as an accomplice held employees at bay.

Brest's companion-in-crime, Harry James Logan, now in Alcatraz prison, held Cox and other bank employees, along with two bank examiners, at revolver point, the witness said.

Warned To Hurry
During the second robbery, Cox attempted to delay the opening of the safe. Cox testified Brest warned him:

"I'll give you three seconds to get the safe opened," and shoved a revolver in his back.

Brest then asked about negotiable securities, Cox said, but the witness added that he told him there were none. Prosecuting Attorney Charles F. Uhl asked Cox whether there were any such securities in the bank at the time, Cox replied:

"We had plenty of them."

Examiners In Bank
Also in the bank at the time of the first stickup were L. W. Hauschild, New Castle, and L. W. Morgan, Pittsburgh, both federal bank examiners, Cox said.

Mrs. Mabel Brown, assistant cashier of the bank, testified that she was present during both robberies and identified Brest as one of the two gunmen. Hauschild then took the stand and corroborated her testimony.

During the second robbery, Cox told the jury, a woman customer, Mrs. M. F. Breneman entered and Brest forced the cashier to wait on her. She walked out apparently unaware that a holdup was being staged, Cox added.

PA NEWS OBSERVES

Local residents are hoping that the prediction for rain over the week-end will come true. One of the hottest May 26ths on record was reported yesterday, when the mercury rose to 92 degrees. The water company reports that water is being used almost as fast as it can be pumped into the lines, many residents using extra water because of the drought to keep their grass green, and vegetables from drying up.

Friday night seemed like a "Midsummer night," and the sun came up over the horizon this morning, with a dazzling brightness. 'Twas about eighty degrees at 8 o'clock. Good old corn growing weather.

While jaunting about the city, Pa. News observed this morning the first red roses in full bloom in a yard located on South Mill street, which is a refreshing sight.

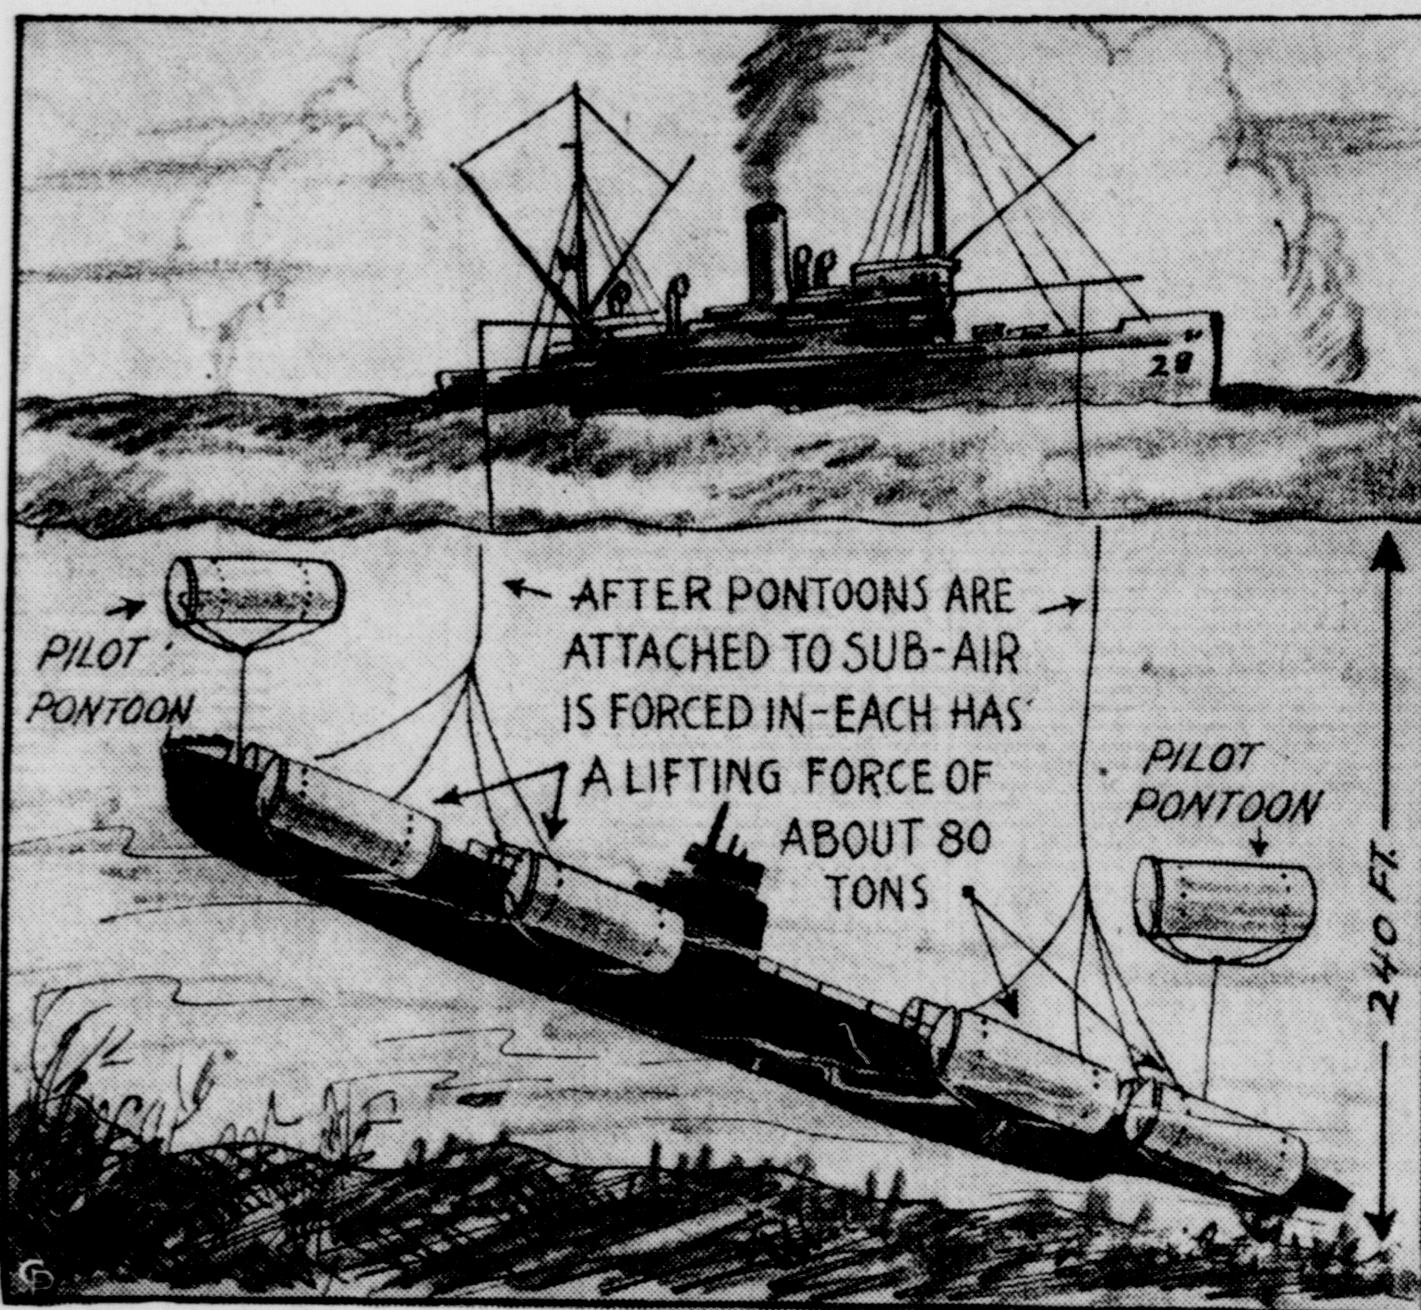

On his way to work, one morning this week, John Murdock, of Shaw street, counted ten licenses on cars, all from different states, within two blocks.

Travelling down North Jefferson street, this morning, was a sedan bearing a license, inscribed, "Golden Jubilee", State of Washington.

HYDE PARK, N. Y., May 27.—President Roosevelt returned to his family home on the Hudson this morning for a brief holiday, still silent on his plans for 1940 despite increasing pressure that he make known whether or not he will be a third term candidate.

Just before leaving Washington, the president saw postmaster general James A. Farley, fresh from a transcontinental swing on which the latter obviously was sounding out sentiment and lining up delegates.

Whether Farley got the word he has been waiting for or not, he failed to disclose. The indications were he didn't. When he left the cabinet meeting, Big Jim would add nothing to his statement in Chicago. (Continued On Page Two)

Daylight Time Agitation Loses At Youngstown

YOUNGSTOWN, May 27.—Opponents of daylight saving time for Youngstown and other larger eastern Ohio area cities apparently have won a victory in their battle against the proposal to advance clocks an hour.

H. Ross Packard, secretary of the Youngstown Chamber of Commerce, said he found little interest in the proposed time change among chamber representatives from Cleveland, Akron, Canton, Warren and other cities at a meeting yesterday at Cleveland.

Cleveland city council's legislative committee late yesterday voted unanimously to retain eastern standard time, killing a proposal to institute day light time.

Dr. Mayo Dies From Pneumonia

CHICAGO, May 27.—The body of Dr. Charles Horace Mayo was returned for burial today to the small Minnesota town of Rochester which he helped build into one of the world's greatest medical centers.

The renowned physician and surgeon died late yesterday from pneumonia after an 8-day battle. He was 73.

Even an intense desire to live failed to mislead the younger of the noted Mayo brothers in a characteristically swift and sure diagnosis of his own case and its probable outcome.

As soon as he was stricken while returning to Rochester from Arizona he knew the trouble and several days ago predicted the end, according to his son, Dr. Charles W. Mayo.

WASHINGTON, May 27.

In an all-embracing statement of new deal fiscal policy which had President Roosevelt's full approval, Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau proposed six-point program of tax revision today and called upon congress to initiate steps to balance the budget.

Secretary Morgenthau presented the statement before the house ways and means committee in language which had the ring of a new administration "appeasement" of business.

Approved By Roosevelt
Though Morgenthau's views contrasted somewhat with the president's recent defense of spending, the treasury head emphasized that his statement had been "heartily" approved by Mr. Roosevelt "in its entirety."

Of the balanced budget, so vigorously demanded by an element of business, Secretary Morgenthau told the committee that "deficits too long continued" in federal finance will make the nation's recovery from economic depression "more difficult."

In bold words, Morgenthau declared that promotion of free enterprise and private investment and a sound financial policy are essential to the government in the face of world-wide attack on democracy. He called for repeal of the undistributed profits tax first enacted in 1936 as an important New Deal reform in taxation. In recommend- (Continued On Page Two)

Brest Is Convicted In Jury Trial

Jury Returns Quick Verdict

Found Guilty Of Abduction Of Salesman At Sharon In 1936

HEAR TESTIMONY IN VOLANT CASES

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, May 27.—Harold Martin Brest, Pennsylvania kidnaper and bank robber who "came back" from Alcatraz on a legal technicality, was convicted of abducting a Sharon, Pa., salesman and of stealing his car, Friday afternoon.

The jury of eight women and four men took one hour to reach its final verdict.

Brest, with nothing to lose and everything to gain, escaped a life sentence, plus 55 years in Alcatraz, on the legal ground that he had not been offered counsel when he pleaded guilty to the same crimes in federal court here early in 1937.

Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker, who originally passed the stiff sentence, presided at Brest's re-trial.

Brest, a 28-year-old Sharonite, did not take the stand as his counsel, Attorney Zeno Fritz, stated everything on his final argument to the jury and last.

Brest was accused of kidnapping D. Lester Santee, Sharon salesman, and of stealing his automobile.

Pittsburgh, May 27.—Convicted of kidnapping a Sharon salesman and of stealing his car, Harold Martin Brest, 28-year-old former Sharonite, set quietly in federal court today while the government prosecuted him on additional charges of robbing the Volant, Pa., bank twice in 1936.

The first jury of eight women and four men had hardly filed out to begin deliberations when the second group moved in and testimony was started.

The second case was interrupted briefly to permit the first jury to return its verdict of guilty.

ing repeal, however, he urged safeguards to prevent "hoarding" of corporation profits.

Taxes Restrict Investment

In his bid to business by the removal of "tax irritants," Morgenthau went so far as to suggest that congress consider whether the "soak the rich" high individual income surtax rates should not be slashed on the ground that they restrict investment.

While Morgenthau made no specific tax suggestions, he devoted a large part of his statement to a discussion of the dangers besetting a Democratic government which fails to keep its financial house in order.

He proposed that the house ways and means and the senate finance committees, which handles tax bills, and the senate and house appropriations committees, which handle spending bills, unite as a joint committee on fiscal policy to consider the whole financial picture.

Morgenthau also urged that congress create a temporary national commission to investigate the conflict in taxation between the federal and state governments and also to consider the entire financial picture of both.

After warning the committee that huge armament expenses threaten the financial position of all governments, declaring that a balanced budget is necessary and adding that the budget does not have to be balanced each year, Morgenthau said:

"If, however, deficits are too long continued, the oppressive effects of uncertainty tend to make recovery more difficult."

In tax revision, the secretary urged the committee to give consideration to the following suggestions:

1. Elimination of the controversial undistributed profits tax;
2. Reduction in the surtaxes on high bracket incomes;
3. Revision of the capital stock and excess profit taxes on corporations;
4. Elimination of tax exempt securities; and
5. Liberalization of deductions for losses allowed corporations.
6. Establishment of a long-range policy to minimize the use of manufacturers' excise and other taxes on commodities which tend to be shifted to consumers.

Under water also were attached heavy chains to which will be made fast eight huge pontoons, each capable of lifting 80 tons. The pontoons will be flooded and sunk alongside the Squalus, made fast, and the water forced out to give buoyancy.

Whether the bodies of the 26 men would be removed before the Squalus is brought to the surface remained undecided.

Legislature May Not Be Adjourned Before Next Week

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, May 27.—Pennsylvania's Republican-dominated senate, driving for final adjournment by tomorrow, disposed of controversial labor and workmen's compensation bills early today, but still found itself confronted with the contested Kane bill regulating the hard coal industry.

As word-weary legislators ended an all-night session shortly before 6 a. m., the possibility of a Democratic filibuster against passage of the anthracite bill threatened to force the session over into next week.

Despite the insistence of Republican leaders and Gov. Arthur H. James that the session end this week-end, angry Democratic members of the senate mines and mining committee were apparently determined to "keep the senate in session all next week" if necessary to prevent passage of the Kane bill.

Bootleg Miners Converge Upon State Capitol

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, May 27.—A reported 20,000 bootleg miners from the hard coal regions converged upon the capitol today as the senate prepared to vote upon the house-approved Kane anthracite bill by which the state would regulate the industry.

The vanguard of the expected throng arrived at the capitol shortly before noon today in coal trucks and dressed in mine regalia. About 200 had arrived at noon and were milling about the front steps and lobby of the capitol, holding impromptu meetings and listening to their speakers. Thursday about 500 miners visited the capitol to make their protests against the bill to the senate mines and mining committee which reported the bill out for a vote last night.

No Commitment Declares Dewey

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, May 27.—District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey today emphatically forewore any commitment in the 1940 presidential campaign despite inferential prediction of a high-ranking Republican leader that Dewey was in line as standard bearer against a third-term bid by President Roosevelt.

"I am not committed to anyone and no one has the right to commit me," said Dewey. His statement came on the heels of a declaration by National Committeeman Kenneth F. Simpson, also Republican chairman of New York county, that a "favorite son" from New York state might capture the G. O. P. nomination next year.

Deaths of the Day

J. H. Hossler.

New Castle friends and relatives are saddened by the news of the sudden death of J. H. Hossler, aged 69 years, retired Baltimore and Ohio railroad passenger agent of New Castle, in Albion, Pa., Friday.

Special Highway Patrol Over Period Of Holiday

State motor police stationed in this city have started on a 24-hour patrol until Wednesday of next week in an effort to minimize auto accidents over the holiday period, according to Corporal G. F. Keck.

"Traffic has increased because of camping trips, fishing expeditions, fairs in New York and San Francisco, and detours.
"Some of the highways over which automobiles must travel are narrow. Ditches line some of the highways, and no one should make a bad pass or fail to observe every stop sign.
"Death or injury may follow failure to observe stop signs. One moment of carelessness may cause years of untold grief and sorrow, and it is the desire of the motor police that the auto-going public give co-operation.

"Every available motor policeman stationed here will be on the highway to aid travel. They have been given instructions to enforce the motor laws in the hope of saving a careful driver from a speed demon.
"Do not drive in excess of 50 miles an hour. However, drive at a rate of speed that will not result in cars being strung out in the rear for half a mile.

"Cutting in and out is a dangerous practice. Do not drive so close to the preceding car your car cannot be stopped in time to avoid a crash if the car ahead is stopped suddenly.

"Use only your side of the road. Do not take for granted you can monopolize more than one-half of the road and the other oncoming auto will 'take' to the berm.
"Be careful ascending a hill. Keep to the right. Watch for cars coming from side roads. Never race a car which endeavors to pass your machine.

"Reckless operation and speeding can cost your operator's license. Every motorist knows when he takes his examination what he must do to keep the privilege.

"The police will be on improved and unimproved roads. They will watch for bad passes 'cut-ins' and will watch for stop sign violators. The motor police will co-operate with the auto-going public and expect the motor-going public to co-operate with us. It is our desire to have an accidentless over-the-holiday period," Keck asserted.

The sand blasting of the columns on the court house porch is done and the employees of the court house are delighted. For ten days they have had doors and windows closed and have been breathing fine dust.

Now its all over, the columns are clean and look good and fresh air is in the menu.

The City of New Castle has entered a petition in the prothonotary's office asking that viewers be appointed to award damages and benefits in the grading of Crescent avenue.

Today is sentence court and a number of boys who have been arrested for crime and pleaded, got the bad news. Saturday morning is sentence court every week and because of the unusual number of pleas secured every month by District John G. Lamoree, the terms of criminal court are reduced in length materially.

The June grand jury will meet on Monday, June 2, to consider the indictments handed up to them. The list of cases to be tried is not large and the possibilities are that the jurors called for the second week of criminal court will not be needed.

Yes Mister Twitchell You're Absolutely Right

Elmer Twitchell is a lad who gets around — he's been places and seen things — Elmer knows his entertainment spots — and Elmer is decided about one thing — the Castleton Saturday night parties are the nuts—but definitely — (says Mister Twitchell) — and he's right — tonight is a good example — the Legion lads and lassies will be there — after they banquet the state commander — there'll be plenty of gaiety — and friendship — and why don't you and the girl-friend join the crowd — for dancing there's Enzo Restivo and his Castleton Hotel Orchestra — and just between us they've promised to give those Three Little Fishes a very thorough going over — better not miss it if its fun you're after — and of course no cover charge — nor a minimum — and no charge for dancing — come down and you'll see how right Mister Elmer Twitchell is.

RAPIDLY GROWING CHILD DEMANDS ADDITIONAL CALCIUM SUPPLY

We sometimes hear a mother explain that because her baby is so big and healthy and is gaining weight so fast that she doesn't think he needs it. I would like to impress on mothers that these are just the babies who do need cod liver oil more than any others. You will be surprised, no doubt, that small, slow-gaining babies seldom develop rickets.

It is the big, lusty, healthy baby who is most apt to develop rickets. The reason for this is obvious. As we mentioned before, rickets is a disease of the calcium of the body. There is an interference with the laying down of the calcium which forms the bone. So, it is natural, when you stop to figure it out, that the child who is growing very rapidly is going to require more and more calcium. The result is that the bone gets thicker than it normally would, but it is very much weaker.

This increased thickness of the bones occurs where the growth is the fastest, and it is one of the first signs of rickets. Thus one of the earliest signs of the disease is an enlarging of the ends of the long bones in the arms and the legs. In your child, the ribs are about the fastest-growing in his entire anatomy. Here we often find the first evidence of rickets as a series of bumps on the front of the chest just outside the breast bone where the ribs are joined to this structure. Sometimes, however, we see our first signs of the disease in an unnatural bulging abdomen.

The most dangerous type of onset of rickets is seen when there is a convulsion. Very frequently in your healthy looking youngster, rickets goes on developing quietly and without fuss. No one suspects that there is a thing wrong with the child. Suddenly he has a series of convulsions and at once he is gravely ill. This serious condition is caused by the fact that not only have the bones been robbed of calcium, but there hasn't been enough for the blood. Convulsions are the result.

So if your child is "growing like a weed", don't just decide on your own that he doesn't need cod liver oil.

If you suspect that your child may have rickets, see your doctor at once. There are times when only an X-ray picture will make the diagnosis complete.

DAILY DOZEN

(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)

Mothers are much younger than fathers.

There were 161,288 births in Pennsylvania in 1937.

A total of 105 mothers were under 14 years of age.

But only two fathers were in that age group.

Eleven women between 50 and 54 had children.

Yet 1,567 fathers were in that age group.

No woman 55 or over had a child in Pennsylvania in 1937.

However, there were 655 fathers older than 55 years.

Few women past 45 have a child. It is rare that a woman past 50 becomes a mother.

The average age for mothers in America is 27 years.

Fathers average 31½ years.

Hints On Etiquette

Women who take their children visiting in friend's homes and refuse to restrain them when they are damaging the friend's furniture not only show their own lack of good manners, but that of their children.

The Human Side Of The News

(By EDWIN C. HILL)

Copyright 1939 King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Joseph P. Kennedy, American ambassador to the Court of St. James, tactfully suggests that English newspapers open their columns to American news other than the usual run of gangster stories, the favorite British dish when it comes to American news. He suggests also that they reject, as not completely adequate or revealing, the film portrayals of our "design for living."

The above devices of potentially honest and enlightened human understanding by man, of man, may if properly used, banish virulent nationalism and clear the way for a sane and solvent world society, but we have a long way to go before we reach that felicitous state.

Considering the span of years in which we have had the printing press, instantaneous communication, swift transportation and a world circulation of moving pictures, the cultural insularity and reciprocal misunderstanding among nations is nothing short of amazing.

The above devices of potentially honest and enlightened human understanding by man, of man, may if properly used, banish virulent nationalism and clear the way for a sane and solvent world society, but we have a long way to go before we reach that felicitous state.

One's impulse is to follow up Mr. Kennedy's little love tap with a round-house swing. Some untraveled British are certainly wide open for it in their insistence that Americans must be quaint, preposterous, uncouth or homicidal, and that they are a "bit too forward" and out of their place if they try to assume any other role.

But we can afford to let that ride. For the moment, and take note of the fact that when Mr. Kennedy complains that the British accept the movie portrayal of a quite generally violent America, they are merely taking what we hand them. We didn't exactly "plan it that way," but that's how it is. I have in mind not so much the type or exaggerations of our screen. What,

The time has long gone by when any newspaperman can get by with a brain soused in alcohol. It just doesn't happen in these days when a lad has to have all his wits and all his energy to hold down a newspaper job. And why do the movies thus over-play everything in which money is even remotely involved? I once asked a moving picture director that question. His reply was interesting but not convincing.

"In the theatre, we call it 'sympathetic identification,'" he said. "People go to the theatre to forget their troubles and to cash in on their dreams. When the stenographer finally hooks this young Van Hoozen-Hyphen and moves into the million working girls along with her. They shoot two-bits and they are queens for a day. There isn't a one of them who doesn't declare herself in, as the romance unfolds. We couldn't possibly overdo the splendors of the Locust Valley estate. If a foyer 100 yards long is good, 200 yards is better. I tell you this is dream stuff. Reality has nothing to do with it."

Sixteen century nature-fakers, returning to England from Africa, brought tales of natives with one foot fashioned like an umbrella, shading them from the sun as they slept. Everybody believed it, and probably no harm was done. Is there, perhaps, in this more constricted era, with less elbow room, more need for truth and veracity, and is nature-faking possibly a luxury which we can't afford much longer?

"Lazy Bones" two-piece slacks suit.

The very latest things in play and vacation clothes, 1939 summer models, have "oomph," with a vengeance—which tells ALL! Stripes are very good, as glimpse the two-piece play suit in washable fabric and vivid colors, and the striped bodice of the jacket frock, which has criss-cross shoulder straps, sun-tan back and bolero jacket with pockets made of the stripes with plain colored flaps with buttons. For lounging you may like the two-piece slacks suit—not the trouser creases—and the top of dotted, chalk-colored spun rayon. The slacks are in plain colors contrasting with the top. For general activity the shirt-style slacks suit in two-piece styling is as smart and practical as you please. AMERICAN FOLK DRAMA TO BE REVIVED THIS SUMMER

FIRST ENGLISH COLONIES
SITE OF FIRST ENGLISH SETTLEMENTS IN NEW WORLD, 1607-1609. BIRTHPLACE OF VIRGINIA DARE, FIRST CHILD BORN OF ENGLISH PARENTS IN AMERICA, AUGUST 18, 1607.

"The Lost Colony," musical drama originally written and produced by Paul Green, noted playwright, for the 350th anniversary observation at Manteo, N. C., of the founding of the first English colonies in America will be revived again this year at Manteo's huge Waterside theater. More than 175,000 have seen the play which tells the story of the early settlers, especially Virginia Dare, first

Cincinnati Reds In First Place

Defeat Cardinals 7 To 5 To Gain Top Berth, Pirates
Thump Cubs 14-5

YANKS CONTINUE TO WIN GAMES

By LAWTON CARVER
International News Service Sports
Editor

NEW YORK, May 27.—Those of us who packed the Cincinnati Reds to win the National League pennant have prattled at some length about their fine pitching, generally adequate fielding and lusty hitting, but it develops now that they have still another prerequisite to greatness. In fact, the Reds have something without which no club can progress very far, the same being courage. They may by next season—with the addition of a couple of players—develop into one of the best teams to come along in years.

They are in first place today in the league standings after winning 11 straight games, the streak having been continued yesterday at St. Louis against the Cardinals. To keep it up the Reds had to snap a Cardinal winning string that had reached seven. The Reds did it on the Cards' own grounds by 7 to 5 and, at the same time, squared their encounters for the season with the Cards at three-all.

Pirates Thump Cubs
In the only other National League game, the Pittsburgh Pirates blasted the Chicago Cubs, 14 to 5, with a 17 hit attack levelled against four hurlers.

The New York Yankees continued to get the pace in the American League in a real pitchers' duel and a heart-breaker for Henry Pippin, who held the champions to four hits only to go down with the Philadelphia Athletics, 1 to 0. Pippin's only mistake was a ball he grooved for Tommy Henrich in the sixth with the count three and two. Henrich promptly slapped out a home run for the only score of the game. Oral Hildebrand, who toiled on the hill for the Yankees, allowed six hits and walked seven.

The Boston Red Sox remained in second place, 5½ games behind the fast-travelling Yankees, by beating the Washington Senators, 4 to 2. In the remaining American League contest, the Chicago White Sox beat the Cleveland Indians, 2 to 1.

Croton A. C. Tops Columbus Reserves

The Croton A. C. baseball team topped the Columbus Reserves last night at Lockley Field by a score of 9 to 2, with Trott the winning pitcher. The Crotons won the game in the fifth inning with a seven run attack. Melchior was the losing pitcher. Sunday the Crotonians will play the Capitols at Lockley Field at 2:30 o'clock. Mancine will be on the hill for the Crotons.

Keeps Up Pace

Four Straight Days Market
Has Been On Upswing,
Several Leaders Gain
Point And More

By LESLIE GOULD
International News Service
Financial Writer
NEW YORK, May 27.—The stock market made it four straight on the upside today as the list was stimulated by additional encouraging business news. Several leaders gained a point or more.

Steel shares were pacemakers, reflecting reports of sharply increased operating rates in all of the major steel-making centers. Estimates on next week's output included gains of 6½ points for Chicago and 4 for Pittsburgh.

Helpful to the market were the remarks of Secretary Morgenthau, who cited the undistributed profits levy as a tax irritant in a preliminary statement on the treasury's tax views.

All active steel shares were up a point or so, including Bethlehem, U. S. Steel, Crucible, National and Youngstown. Equal gains were chalked up by Allied Chemical, Santa Fe, Continental Can and Eastman Kodak.

Wheat gains were modest. Cotton and most minor commodities showed little change from previous closing levels. Bonds made no appreciable headway.

SENIOR HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

(Material Gathered and Edited by Student Reporters)

EXAMS

To pass or not to pass, that is the question. Whether it is nobler to gaze upon the same scenery for another eighteen weeks or to travel onward to new realms of study, is utmost in the minds of every student at Ne-Ca-Hi. To fail; to pass, perhaps! Examinations with grades of A's and B's 'tis a consummation devoutly to be wished. Did we pass? Did we fail? Oh, well! Only time will tell. When we have shuffled off this shroud of study, happiness may come again. Then, to sleep, perchance to dream no more of pencils, books and teacher's scornful looks.

GIRL RESERVES

The regular bi-weekly meeting of the Girl Reserves was held Monday evening, May 22nd at 7:30 o'clock in the Y. W. C. A. with President Emma Schuller presiding. Devotions were conducted by Helen McCommon after which the minutes of the last meeting were read by secretary Esther Chitt. Dorothy Porter, editor of the S. R. newspaper, presented Betty Francis with a gift for selling the greatest number of subscriptions to the paper recently published.

President Schuller next introduced Mrs. Olive Bollinger who secured the names of all girls who were interested in home nursing.

A panel discussion on the question of dividing the club into three separate groups followed after which an election of officers for the ensuing semester named Betty Francis, president; Betty Reed, secretary; and Mary Elizabeth Allen, treasurer.

RADIO PROGRAM FOR JUNE 1

Instead of the regular weekly broadcasts presented by the various departments of the school each Wednesday, several features of Senior Day, Thursday, June 1 will be heard from the high school auditorium beginning at 2 a. m. over our local station, WKST. The features to be broadcast will include the class history by Betty Lee Raney, the class song to be the tune of a currently popular song, the presentation of the axe to the Senior B president, James Hewitt, from the Senior A president, Merritt Reynolds, and other events to be selected by the committee in charge.

STUDENT COUNCIL

President Jack Mathews opened the meeting and called on Jeannie Dufford, the secretary, to read the minutes of the last meeting. After the completion of reading the minutes, the president expressed his thanks to every member of the council for their co-operation in making the spring dance on May 19 a huge success. The general chairman of the dance, Ginny Prodrick, reported to the council the financial outcome of the dance. The council then voted to send their appreciation in the form of a box of candy to the janitors of the school for their grand help in making the dance a success.

A motion was made and seconded that the council hold a picnic. A committee, consisting of Tom Clark, chairman; Aurora Nocera, Betty Mae Wright, Gladys Stickle, and Jean Dufford was appointed to take care of this matter. The president then adjourned the meeting until the same time next week.

REPORT OF LUNCHEONS

At Tuesday, May 23, a spring luncheon was served to twelve teachers in the dining room. Hostesses for the occasion were Janet Hanna and Helen Pencer. The luncheon was under the supervision of Miss Ruth Wallace's Beginning Food Three Class. The second luncheon was held on Thursday, May 25 with Xenia Lesh and Ruth Seller as hostesses.

SENATUS ROMANUS

Two important features of the Senatus Romanus meeting the night of Open House, May 12th, were omitted in last week's paper and are as follows:

The history of the club was recounted by Hazel Ann Mark who stated that on Thursday, May 11th, the constitution of the club as now organized was eleven years old.

In conclusion the audience was favored with a flute duet, "Moonlight and Roses," by James Hares and Esther Schaller with Helen Louise Singer accompanying them at the piano.

FARMERS' FIELD DAY
The Annual Farmers Field Day at the Pennsylvania State College is scheduled for Thursday, June 15. This includes an all-day program of inspection of the flocks and herds, building, and field demonstration. The Rural Chorus Contest at 2:00 P. M. will be a feature of interest to music lovers. The contestants consist only of rural groups.

CERTIFICATION OF CROPS
Potatoes, wheat, oats and barley can be certified for seed purposes this year by the Bureau of Plant Industry. Anyone interested in certifying a crop for seed purposes can secure an application for certification from the Agricultural Extension Office, 206 Post Office Building, or by writing to the Bureau of Plant Industry, Department of Agriculture, Harrisburg, Pa. The applications must be submitted to the bureau by June 1.

BIGGER PEONY BLOSSOMS
Now is the time to pinch off peony side buds. Removal of the buds growing on the side of the stems permits the crown buds to develop into large blossoms. During the growing season keep the soil cultivated thoroughly. Mulching may be practiced to a limited extent.

DEMONSTRATION PROVES SPRAYING REDUCES SCAB

The control of scab is an important problem of apple growers. A demonstration was recently conducted under the direction of the Agricultural Extension Service of the Pennsylvania State College to determine the most desirable time for applying sprays. The demonstration was conducted in the middle of a block of trees, which with the exception of those sprayed for the demonstration, were unsprayed. The results showed that only complete spraying was effective this year in control of apple scab. Delayed dormant, pre-pink, pink and petal-fall were the sprays used. Scab infection on apple flower stems which results in dropping fruit was extremely severe this spring.

It was found that on the unsprayed trees, 73 per cent of the blossoms had stem infections in contrast with no infections on trees on which the complete spray schedule was used. Infection amounted to 38 per cent where only the delayed dormant spray was applied. Apparently most of the infection so far this year occurred during the pre-pink stage since trees sprayed at that time show no infection. It is expected that later checks may show that the pre-pink and pink sprays are most important. Application of only the pink spray reduced infection to only 11 per cent. It is believed that since most of the stem infection took place during rains late in the pre-pink period, the pink spray apparently gave back action because it did reduce stem infection.

Approximately 30 per cent of the leaves were scabby on apples considered in the demonstration that were either unsprayed or not sprayed until petal fall. Application of the delayed dormant spray reduced the number of scabby leaves to 23 per cent.

Apple growers who have missed any of the sprays undoubtedly have some infection in their orchards.

ROTENONE BEST AGAINST MEXICAN BEAN BEETLE

Overwintering adult Mexican bean beetles will soon begin depositing their orange-yellow eggs in irregular masses on the undersides of bean leaves. Both the larvae, which eventually hatch from the eggs, and the adults feed on the underside of the leaves, eating all the tissue except the network of veins. Two generations of beetles occur in Pennsylvania. Development from eggs to adults takes two months or less. All stages of the insects can be found on bean plants in late summer. At that time mature adults fly into new territory. The insects attack all varieties of field and garden beans.

Although numerous dusts and sprays may be used for the control of Mexican bean beetles, rotenone sprays or dusts usually prove most successful. Commercial derris dusts of specified rotenone content are available or the materials may be obtained and mixed at home. Specific information regarding the proper mixtures can be secured at the Agricultural Extension Office. Regardless of whether dust or spray is used, the material must be directed to the undersides of the leaves where the beetles feed.

VEGETABLES REQUIRE FREQUENT CULTIVATION

The time for cultivation of the vegetable garden is here again. It opened the moment the seedlings were visible.

Such crops as corn, cabbage, tomatoes, peppers, peas and beans that are planted in wide rows may be cultivated rather deeply the first time, particularly if a heavy rain has hardened the soil. However, shallow cultivation is best later to avoid damage to the root systems. Under ordinary conditions, repeating cultivation at approximately 2-week intervals is sufficient.

Because radishes, onions, lettuce, beets and carrots are planted more closely, shallow cultivation about one inch deep at more frequent intervals is best. Modern hand wheel hoes do a thorough job if equipped with blades rather than cultivator teeth.

The most popular hand tool used to kill young weeds and produce a shallow mulch is a hoe rather than a rake. The same principle holds true with the use of wheel hoe attachments, blades are better than teeth.

Germminating weed seeds and small weeds are easily destroyed, but more mature weeds grow rapidly and are harder to destroy. They rob the vegetables of moisture, fertility and space. Therefore, it is important to keep ahead of the weeds.

EGGS GIVE PROTECTION TO FAMILY'S HEALTH

Busy homemakers are always alert for new ideas to use faithful food standbys.

Eggs are one of these faithful standbys, reminds Miss Julia Markle, home economics extension representative of Lawrence County. They are plentiful during the spring and are an inexpensive source of protective food substances.

Eggs are especially valuable for their iron, vitamin A, and their "efficient" protein or muscle-building food. They are rich in phosphorus and are a good source of calcium. Besides being an excellent source of vitamin G, they supply vitamin B, and are one of the few sources of natural vitamin D.

Because much of the mineral and vitamin content of the egg is concentrated in the yolk, it is one of the first foods added to the baby's diet. Eggs are one of the best foods to aid in promoting growth in children and they should hold an important place in the diets of adults.

Miss Markle adds that results of experimental work in nutrition show that children should have four or five eggs every week, or better still one every day. Adults should have three or four a week.

Eggs have a wide number of uses and a place in every meal. The day, the secret for the success of all egg dishes is slow cooking at a low, moderate, even heat. This makes the egg protein tender though firm. High heat or overcooking causes the protein to shrink and the eggs to become tough, or the egg dishes to separate and become watery.

Omelets are in high favor for the homemaker who is interested in adventure and they offer many possibilities for variety, according to Miss Markle. Omelets make a pleasing background for left-over foods. Chopped bacon or ham gives additional flavor. Variety as well as color may be served by adding chopped cooked vegetables such as carrots, string beans, or asparagus. Some homemakers produce new flavors in their omelets through the use of fresh herbs, such as chives, basil, marjoram, or thyme, or a generous pinch of dried herbs.

To secure greater variety, Miss Markle suggests fruit juices or vegetable juices instead of milk in an omelet. Tomato juice is an especially good choice as the acid helps to hold up the egg foam and makes it tender. It also gives a pleasing color to the food.

County Treasurer To Seek Election

V. I. Mandich Announces Candidacy For Regularly Elected Term

V. I. MANDICH

V. I. Mandich, treasurer of Lawrence county, today announced his intention of seeking the Democratic nomination for a regularly elected term. His announcement follows:

On May 27th, 1938 just one year ago today, I assumed the office of treasurer of Lawrence county by appointment from the governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, filling the vacancy which existed in that office. At the time the appointment was made, leaders of the Democratic party in this county stressed the necessity of appointing someone who was qualified by experience to handle the office. Their statement to the governor was in substance this: "Mr. Mandich is well qualified by nineteen years of experience as a banker to handle the job."

In the year that has passed I have given the taxpayers of this county the most efficient service of which I was capable. The position entailed more than the ordinary details of the office. It was necessary to get new books, modernize the system, handle the regular tax payments and at the same time care for the delinquencies, which were paid through the several Tax Abatement Acts.

How well I performed that work I would sooner leave to the judgment of the taxpayers, who have come in and seen the office. I will say that every dollar paid in to me as treasurer has been accounted for according to law and I welcome a most exacting scrutiny of the books of the past year that I have been in office.

The one qualification stressed a year ago was EFFICIENCY. That qualification is just as necessary today. No person, however honestly intentioned, can well handle the work of the county treasurer's office unless he has had a background of experience with financial transactions and the handling of the banking business for nineteen years prior to my appointment. Bessemer is my home and has been since 1921.

There has been some question in the minds of a few people as to my eligibility to serve an elected term after having filled a portion of term by appointment. That question has been disposed of to the satisfaction of competent attorneys and also by reason of the fact that there is in this county a precedent for such service. The late John DeNormande was appointed to a vacancy as county treasurer by appointment the following term. Article 14, section 1 of the Pennsylvania Constitution says in part: "... and no sheriff or treasurer shall be eligible for the term next succeeding the one for which he may be elected." Since I am now serving as county treasurer by appointment and not by election it will be seen there is no question of my eligibility to serve if elected.

During my year as county treasurer I have had the idea of efficient service above the rules of political expediency. I strove for efficiency and endeavored to conduct this office as a business man doing a business job for the taxpayers of the county. I ask the support of the Democratic voters in the primaries of September 12th, 1939. If nominated and elected to the office of county treasurer my only pledge to the taxpayers is to continue to give them the same kind of service they received during the past year. Firemen were called out for several small fires in the last 24 hours. At 4:50 p. m., Friday, burning grass along the tracks of the Pennsylvania R. A small blaze was found in the flooring in the rear of the building, which may have come from a spark from some papers which were being burned in the furnace. The loss was slight.

This morning at 8:45 o'clock, firemen were summoned to the Triangle Shoe Company at 229 East Washington street, when employees smelled smoke which had gotten into the place from the fire early this morning in the Universal Printing Company, 230 Sycamore Way in the rear of the Triangle shop.
